Since 1888 Auckland Girls' Grammar School has been preparing students to make their mark on the world. Ours is a school steeped in tradition, one which has always recognised the unique role that women play in the world around us.

Nurturing young people to realise their potential so they may make a meaningful contribution in our society is a responsibility that we take seriously. The students we teach today will be entrusted with solving challenging and complex problems. The future necessitates a learning environment which challenges all students to have the courage to become the very best versions of themselves: to become critical in their thinking, creative in their problem-solving, compassionate in their connections with others, and relentless in their pursuit of excellence.

Being a member of the Auckland Girls' learning community means upholding a commitment to academic excellence whilst recognising that success is rarely enjoyed alone. Instead it is the result of being part of a supportive learning community which recognises each learner's unique identity, creating a learning experience which nurtures students to become all that they are capable of being.

Kahurangi ki Maungawhau Marae was established in 1986. Since 1987, the marae has been the foundation of Ngā Tūmanako o Kahurangi, which is dedicated to delivering kaupapa Māori education that upholds students' identity, language, and tikanga. Our goal is to provide a culturally rich and academically rigorous pathway, empowering students to achieve their aspirations within a uniquely Māori framework.
